Maths is sometimes hard for me

A song by Charlie

Verse 1:

One, two, four, three – Doing sums is easy.
Five, eight, seven, six – Let us do the number tricks.
Ten, eleven, nine, twelve – I can work it out myself.
Thirty, twenty, fifty ... more – Did I mix them up before?
All those numbers make me see: Maths is sometimes hard for me.

Chorus:

Plus and minus, try again, numbers dancing in my brain.
If it's wrong, well, that's okay, we will try some other way.

Verse 2:

Two times five is more than eight – I am sure that this is right.
Ten minus five is two – I'm not sure if this is true.
Six plus three plus two is ten – Did I get it wrong again?
Let's divide twelve by four – Is it two or is it more?
Plus and minus ... Now I see: Maths is sometimes hard for me.

Chorus:

Plus and minus, try again, numbers dancing in my brain.
If it's wrong, well, that's okay, we will try some other way.
